

The Top 5 Ways Coupons Increase Sales for a Health and/or Beauty Business

Haircuts and dental exams have the potential to get costly, and potential customers might be hesitant about paying for these sorts of health and beauty services even if they're slightly out of budget. With your health and/or beauty business, you understand this is a tricky challenge worth addressing.

Coupons are the solution you've been seeking in order to boost sales for your small business. Here are the top 5 ways that coupons can attract clients who are on a budget, all while growing your enterprise like never before.

1. Customers Save Money

This is the most basic function of coupons. And who could resist? In America today, almost every consumer would prefer to have a coupon so they can lower the costs of their day-to-day purchases.

Plus, the savings power of coupons will remind any of your former customers about your products. People stop going to a particular business simply because they've forgotten about it. Perhaps this has happened with your health and/or beauty business. With coupons, you'll offer a compelling incentive for them to visit your spa, beauty salon, or dentist office again.

Advertise your exclusive coupons and deals through Ad Pages so that you can reach the mailboxes of consumers in and around your community. When locals learn that they can receive a high-quality service for a stunning discount, it will be very hard for them to resist the opportunity.

2. Word Gets Around

You might be thinking that if someone discovers a significant discount or sale, they'll keep that information to themselves. The opposite of that is true. Consumers have a tough time holding back their excitement over stumbling upon amazing deals, and soon enough they'll be telling all their friends and family about it.

After announcing new coupons for services at your health and/or beauty business, you'll see the ripple effects pretty quickly. Don't be surprised if people come in with their coupons and tell you that your business was recommended by previous customers whom they knew. Imagine if you hadn't publicized any coupons at all. That's a whole domino effect of sales opportunities that you would've missed out on acquiring.

3. Measurable Benefits

With coupons that have bar codes, your business will be able to capture the identities of customers paying for your services and get an exact number for all of the transactions made by coupon-holders who visited your business.

In the end, you'll be able to tell which sort of coupons were successful and which ones didn't do as well. Chances are, though, all your coupons will be pretty popular. However, it's still best practice to collect data to determine what's working with your clientele, as this will help you make more accurate promotional decisions in the future.

4. You'll Be More Competitive

Are there other health and/or beauty businesses in your community? Competing with them is essential for your enterprise to stay afloat. Otherwise, if you don't know how to compete, you'll lose all your customers to those other businesses.

Coupons are certainly influential on people's buying decisions. On top of that, if you're the sole business in your category within the local region that's providing coupons, you'll ultimately get the majority of business. You will start with a competitive advantage by channeling all the traffic from the competition.

5. They're Cost-Effective for You Too!

Your customers will be saving money, that's a given. But so will you! That's because Ad Pages makes it affordable for your business to promote coupons through print and digital media.

What's more, coupons will enable you to sell more products. Think about it: Almost every time that a customer visits a business as a result of a special coupon, they'll purchase more than just the initial product or service they came for. An advertisement won't necessarily have this impact (though ads are certainly vital to your business). Not only are coupons affordable for you to create and promote; you'll see the increased sales results right away.
